About the Conference

Cancer is a generic term for a large group of diseases that can affect any part of the body. It is the second leading cause of death, and is projected to increase by 26 million cases along with 17 million annual worldwide deaths by 2030. Oncology diseases have immense effect on lives of people and its incidence is showing an increasing trend worldwide, thus becoming a significant public health problem despite advances in understanding of the underlying molecular & cellular events. There are various factors that causes cancer – Age and hormonal status, Family history, Genetic predisposition, Life style, Occupation, Adulteration, Use of tobacco & alcohol, Unhealthy diet, physical inactivity, Cancer causing infections like hepatitis, human papilloma virus, H. pylori, parasites, climate and environment.

Chances of curing cancer could be increase by its early diagnosis, with scientific advancement and advancements in laboratory technologies as well. Further risk of cancer can be reduced possibly through healthy diet, appropriate use of herbs, organic farming, life style change and management of patients who develop cancer. Modification in cosmeceuticals and topical formulations may reduce the risk of certain types of cancer like melanoma, while other types can be cut short by managing pollution and ecosystem. It is known that one-third or even more of new cases of cancer can be prevented. Regardless of prognosis, the initial diagnosis of cancer is still perceived by many patients as life threatening event and may result into range of other clinical complications like anxiety and depression.

This conference would be a great platform for everybody to put forth their ideas, learn and share knowledge with each other and discuss best opportunities in cancer prevention and cure. The emphasis of the conference is on smart and educated choices and on cancer awareness and prevention, including eating well, exercising and getting age-appropriate screening for cancer. It is matter of delight to announce this Mega conference on "Integrating and Innovating the Ideas of Cancer Prevention & Therapies" at CSJM University, Kanpur, India which is known as one of the premier destination for scientific exchange, education and networking. This international event will provide an unparalleled prospect to get associated with leading oncologists, doctors, scientists, academicians, research scholars, specialized and business associates coming from around the world, it will also serve as global platform to converse concerning the current development, recent advances, new approaches and future prospects in the field of cancer prevention & therapies. So, let's all join together and fight against cancer.
